

GAEKWAR KEPT A PRISONER BY BAD WEATHER

Hindoo Prince Forced to Delay His Quest for Knowledge.

EDUCATION HIS HOBBY.

His First Visits Will Be Paid to the Places of Learning.

His Highness the Maharajah, Gaekwar of Baroda, Sir Sayaji Rao III., with a string of titles as becomes the first of all Hindoo princes and the second of rank in all India, with power of life and death over 2,000,000, was today held prisoner in the Waldorf-Astoria by sloppy weather. Unable to "face New York," the distinguished visitor, who has come to this country to pick up pointers for the advancement of his province, discussed India and expounded the banishing of caste. A high-caste man himself, this step toward democracy is a self-sacrifice on the part of the Gaekwar.

The Gaekwar intends spending a week in New York, during which he expects to see everything possible. The first thing he intends to give his time to is not the sights, the financial district or the tall buildings, but the colleges and schools in this city. To-morrow plans to visit Columbia University and the College of the City of New York. With Supr. Maxwell he will make an inspection of the public schools.

Education His Hobby.

Education is the object of his journey here, education for the millions in his province, and particularly technical education, so that the resources of the great territory can be developed. His Highness said so in rapid, fluent English. He gives a certain liquid tone to his voice and he is apparently ready with an answer for any questions asked. A conversation with him completely enrapt his interviewers, who went away with a high regard for this type of Hindoo.

Technical education is what India needs, but at that we are very slow. The Gaekwar, plunging into his favorite topic, which is education, said that the education and advancement of women in his country he added, "I would like to move at the rate of 100 miles an hour toward liberalism, but we can only move at the rate of a quarter of a mile an hour."

The Gaekwar was asked about certain conflicting reports that appeared concerning his family, in which the pretty Maharani, his wife, was but twenty-three years old, while her oldest son was seventeen. The Maharaja said that his wife is thirty years old and their son seventeen. They also have a girl of fourteen.

"I am trying all I can to delay her marrying at fifteen, but—," the Gaekwar threw up his hands in a little gesture of despair. Speaking of marriages in his country, he said:

"Marriages in my country are different from yours here, but they are very much the same. Children—boys and girls—often marry at a very tender age, and the religious ceremony is performed, but they do not live together as man and wife until the age of twenty. The lowest age limit at the present time is at least sixteen, but it should be at least sixteen."

The Maharani Beautiful.

The reports about the Maharani were caused by her slim, petite and almost childlike appearance. Her face is a beautiful type of the Hindu high-caste woman. In the middle of her forehead is the customary pink kumkum mark about the size of a dime. The mark of the Hindu woman who is not widowed.

Returning to his talk about schools, the Gaekwar said:

"We have several schools in my province which are devoted to giving a degree. I intend pushing a law making education compulsory, but as the schools are not free schools that will not be possible. It will be in justice to compel poor people to attend a day school."

"Schools are great levers of caste. I would like to see caste done away with entirely in India. Even now there is nothing to hinder a Hindoo from working on the streets from rising by merit to the highest position politically. Caste interferes only with his marriage or his ending at the table with others of higher caste."

"In the more Westernized schools at Baroda they teach English. In the lower ones they teach only the vernacular. I believe that in this time Western education is the best for the development of the country. If I can find a better one I will adopt it. I expect we will adopt evils in the introduction, but that we must expect."

The Gaekwar admitted he had the power of life and death in his province over the 2,000,000 inhabitants, and that he sat as judge as well as ruler.

No Clash, He Says.

When asked if the English interfered with the native government, he said:

"There is no interference. The two countries are like a brass vessel and steel. The English must not clash or one will break."

"Which is the weaker vessel?" was asked.

"The weaker," replied the Gaekwar.

BOY WHO STABBED GIRL ADMITS $10,000 THEFT

Detectives Say Young Meyerowitz Confesses to Robbing Diamond Firm and Sending Money to Relatives in Russia.

That little Jacob Meyerowitz, sixteen years old, was also in ten months' time to steal things worth of diamonds, besides $500 in cash, and to destroy notes to the amount of $25,000 before stabbing a stenographer, and attempting suicide in the office of his cousin, Meyerowitz Brothers, at No. 25 Maiden lane, was the startling allegations of the police today.

Ever since the stabbing, two weeks ago, when young Jacob declared he and the girl were attacked by a burglar, the police have tried to wring a confession from him, but both he and the girl, Bella H. Hecht, who is also sixteen years old, have clung to the same story. At last, however, Detectives Frank Connors and Snycecker, of the Old Slip, say he has told them that he robbed his cousin systematically and sent the money to his father in Russia to support his mother, who is in an insane asylum, and to educate his little brothers and sisters.

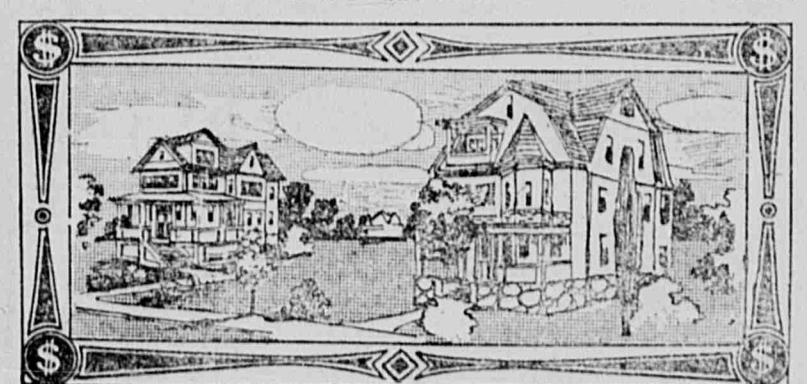

A Written Confession.

The police have a written confession signed by the boy, who is held by the Gerry Society, but they believe they will never have a chance to use it, since the girl has so far refused to accept him of having attacked her. His cousin when he is arraigned in the Children's Court to-morrow they will ask to be allowed to send him back to Russia. The story, nevertheless, is one of a republic.

"I do not object to a republic," said the Maharaja. "I believe in the government which gives the people the greatest opportunity for development and government."

Asked about how the foreign missionaries were treated, he spoke kindly of the hospital and educational work they had done. He said there were no labor troubles in his State, nothing but caste.

Which of These Two Houses Do You Prefer?

You have often heard of houses being as near alike as one pea resembles another. Well, that's true about the house you would most like to buy if your pocketbook would permit and the houses advertised for sale yesterday through Sunday World's Want Directory. The only difference between them is the PRICE. The homes you ordinarily see are owned by people who don't care much whether they sell or not. Those offered through World Wags are owned by people who are EXTREMELY ANXIOUS to sell and will let the buyer have much to say about PRICE, TERMS, etc.

MANY COPS GET OLD BERTHS BACK AGAIN

Force Surprised at Gen. Bingham's Latest Batch of Police Transfers.

When the reporters at Police Headquarters went after their usual morning interview with Police Commissioner Bingham today they found Deputy Commissioner Bingham's latest batch of transfers. The police say the boy has told them that he and the girl were attacked by a burglar, the police have tried to wring a confession from him, but both he and the girl, Bella H. Hecht, who is also sixteen years old, have clung to the same story. At last, however, Detectives Frank Connors and Snycecker, of the Old Slip, say he has told them that he robbed his cousin systematically and sent the money to his father in Russia to support his mother, who is in an insane asylum, and to educate his little brothers and sisters.

The assault occurred two weeks ago in the Maiden lane office. The boy and the girl were alone there in the lunch hour when tenants in the building heard her scream. She staggered out, into the hall with half a dozen stab wounds in her chest and abdomen. Jacob was found lying on the floor of the office with a large sharp knife lying near him. He was taken to the hospital and stabbed slightly ten times on the chest.

At the time Jacob said a rough-looking man had crept into the office through a rear window and attacked him and the girl. Miss Hecht soon became unconscious and an operation was necessary at once. Later she said she could not see the burglar very well because there was a towel about her head, but that he "looked like Jakey."

Another significant transfer is that of Sergeant William C. Egan, of the Tremont Station, has been transferred to the Bureau of Repairs and Supplies at Police Headquarters. Egan was a "power" in the old Devereux administration, and was known as "Jakey's old bossman."

FAST WORK IN GETTING JURY TO TRY FLOMERFELT

Box Filled and Witnesses Called in Famous Jersey Murder Case.

(Special to The Evening World)

SOMERSETVILLE, N. J., May 14.—The most sensational murder trial in Somerset County in many years—that of Jacob A. Flomerfelt for the killing of his brother-in-law, Frank D. Cramer, at the Cramer home at North Branch in December, 1904—began before Judge Garretson in the Somerset Court here today. The Cramer and Flomerfelt families are among the oldest and most influential of this section of New Jersey and the murder case, which has now been before the court more than a year, has aroused the people in every section of the county.

Flomerfelt has already been tried once for the crime. The jury disagreed, standing eleven for conviction and one for acquittal. A retrial of the case was repeatedly postponed through legal manoeuvring and the absence of witnesses. The clamor of the people for a verdict finally caused Justice Garretson to force the case to a speedy trial.

Most of the morning session was occupied in drawing the jury which was selected from a panel of forty-eight men struck by Justice Garretson and Judge Schenck. The following were chosen: J. L. S. Quick, foreman; George Stryker, Frederick A. Quick, Abram Dehart, William B. Dunham, Samuel S. Childs, Isaac B. Thatcher, Jacob Wyckoff, Jacob J. Hedloff, Arthur M. Griffin, Alfred E. Conner, C. Martin Pooker.

The defense exhausted every challenge it was entitled to. Prosecutor Roger told the story of the night in which Cramer was fatally injured and there the taking of testimony began. A neutral among the witnesses appeared today was Mrs. Frank D. Cramer, the widow, who is a sister of the accused man, and her daughter, Miss Rosalie Cramer, a girl of eighteen years, who with her mother insists that her aged uncle was justified in killing her father, and that he did so to protect her mother and herself from the brutality of a drunken father.

HUMMEL TO FACE TRIAL FOR FELONY

Lawyer's Case Set Down for Monday Next in the Supreme Court.

Alto Hummel will have to go to trial again this time for subornation of perjury in the Dodge-Morse divorce scandal. With a sentence of a year in the workhouse hanging over him, because of his conviction last December on a charge of conspiracy the little lawyer is due to face the bar of justice again next Monday, in case the trial of Josefa Terranova is finished by that time.

Subornation of perjury is a felony. Consequently the pending charge against Hummel is more serious than that of which he has already been convicted. If a verdict of guilty should be found against him after the evidence is in the next trial it will be in the power of the court to sentence him to Sing Sing.

There are two indictments against Hummel on the felony count. The first indictment was returned by the grand jury on December 1, 1905, charging Hummel with subornation of perjury in the Dodge-Morse divorce scandal. The second indictment was returned by the grand jury on December 1, 1905, charging Hummel with subornation of perjury in the Dodge-Morse divorce scandal.

The motion dismissed. The first motion was made before Justice Davy. John H. Stanchfield and Joseph J. McNamee, who are the attorneys for Hummel, moved for the dismissal of the indictment. They argued that the indictment was defective in form and substance.

Justice Davy held that none of Hummel's constitutional rights had been infringed upon, and the case was appealed to the Court of Appeals. The Court of Appeals has now affirmed the verdict of the grand jury.

Taking advantage of the opening left by the Court of Appeals, Mr. Stanchfield moved before Justice Scott last week and secured the motion to dismiss of the old ground of constitutional infringement. Justice Scott handed down his decision today, agreeing with Justice Davy that none of the constitutional rights of Hummel had been infringed upon.

Hummel's trouble grew out of his activity in trying to secure an annulment of the marriage of Charles W. Morse, the ice king and millionaire banker, to Mrs. Charles P. Dodge. Mrs. Morse had divorced her husband in the trial last winter it was shown that embezzlement from Hummel's office, working through Hummel for an uncle of Charles W. Morse, brought Dodge to New York from Texas and got him married to Morse.

Dodge went on the witness stand in the Hummel trial and admitted that he had perjured himself during the trial. He was the chief witness against Hummel in the next trial.

BARNARD COLLEGE GETS $150,000 GIFT

Friend, Who Conceals Name, Enables Trustees to Start New Dormitory.

A friend of Barnard College has just given $150,000 toward the erection of a dormitory, which makes it possible for the Trustees to order an immediate beginning of the construction.

In 1902 an endowment fund of $150,000 was announced to be available after an equal sum had been raised from other sources. At that time Mrs. A. A. Anderson gave $50,000 with the stipulation that she might specify its special use, if she should ever so desire. Six weeks ago she authorized the Trustees to expend this sum for plans and foundations of a dormitory in case some friend of the college would give the remainder of the building.

Charles A. Rich, the architect, furnished plans for a dormitory to hold about eighty-five students, eight stories in height, to be placed on the north side of One Hundred and Sixteenth street, west of Broadway, facing, in accordance with the general scheme, upon Milbank quadrangle, and carrying out the style of the present buildings. This forms the nucleus for a set of five dormitories to be built at the south end of the quadrangle; it carries a handsome facade on the north and south, but less slightly walls will remain on the east and west until the two dormitories which complete the first entire dormitory group shall be constructed. These plans were approved at a meeting of the trustees on May 10. Through one of the members of the Board a friend of the college, whose name is to be withheld, offered to give $100,000 toward the cost. As the building will cost $200,000 and the equipment approximately $50,000, the trustees will be obliged to raise $50,000 more than has been provided by the generosity of the donors. The present gift warrants the immediate construction of the hall, which is expected to be ready for occupancy at the opening of the college in September, 1907.

PRETTY GIRL CAUSES ARREST OF A DRIVER.

Hunts Up a Policeman and Has Herman Wolsky Taken to Court.

Isabella Lyons, a pretty stenographer living at No. 50 West Seventy-seventh street, was the complainant in the West Side Court today against Herman Wolsky, a driver whom she had been riding down Broadway in a reckless manner.

Miss Lyons was getting off a Broadway car at Forty-second street, when Wolsky dashed past. He narrowly missed several women and children who were crossing the street, and then collided with another wagon. Miss Lyons got out of the car, found an officer and caused the man's arrest.

"It was not my business," said she to the Magistrate, "but this man was endangering human life, and I thought he should be arrested."

"You did quite right," was the reply; "and if there were more like you we would have fewer deaths on the street corners of this city."

Wolsky was held in $300 for examination to-morrow.

PHYSICIAN AND OCULIST, Or SALESLADY—WHICH?

The eye is the most complicated and sensitive organ of the human body—yet thousands of people trust their eyes to the inexperienced salesperson in a dry-goods or jewelry store when they need eyeglasses.

It is as impossible to examine eyes OVER A COUNTER as it is foolish to "take your pick" from a trayful of eyeglasses, expecting to find a pair that will "suit you."

Here your eyes are being examined according to the most accurate and scientific methods in a specially equipped Eye-testing room under the supervision of a physician and oculist.

The Aeolian Company's ANNUAL SPRING SALE OF USED PIANOS

Received in Exchange for the Pianola Piano A Really Extraordinary Opportunity

The Keynote of This Sale Is Unusual Quality

SUCH an impressive offering of used pianos has never before been presented to the public anywhere in this country. Consider the representative names of the makes! Here are 15 Chickering's, 12 Steinways, 26 Webers, 5 Knabes and several examples each of such well known makes as Steck, Hardman, Kranich & Bach, Fischer, Decker, Hazleton, Wheelock, Sohmer, etc., etc.—over 200 pianos all told. Uprights and Grands.

But this is only half the story. These pianos are of an entirely different type from those that usually find their way to a salesroom for the second time. They are not "discarded" pianos, but are pianos that have been disposed of by their owners because of actual inability to use them.

There is but one piano house in New York that could possibly invite the public to such a sale as this—the house that offers the Pianola Piano in exchange.

It is the great demand for the Pianola Piano that brings this extraordinary opportunity. There is no other reason imaginable that would bring pianos of this grade, in fine condition and in such quantities, into the open market.

In New York there are thousands of good pianos owned by persons who are unable to play them. These people are exchanging their pianos for the new Pianola Piano that anyone can play. Thus we are constantly securing excellent pianos that have seen hardly any use. It is such pianos that constitute this sale.

Special Sale of Used PIANOLAS—$125 $150 $175

AT A SPECIAL SALE last January we offered used Pianolas for the first time in the history of the instrument as low as $125. Persons who delayed acting until the sale was over were much disappointed to find that they could not obtain Pianolas at the special sale prices.

In renewing the offer now, we urge prompt action, as these extremely low prices cannot be continued after the sale closes.

There never was a time when a new Pianola could be bought for a cent under $250. A used Pianola at $125 is therefore a remarkable bargain.

The full guarantee of the manufacturer covers every Pianola in all of these lots. Also, the option is given that if at any time within three months you should prefer a new Pianola or a Pianola Piano, the full purchase price will be allowed on an exchange. Interest will be charged on deferred payments.

TERMS: Pianolas in the $125 lot will be sold at $15 down and $7 a month. Pianolas in the $150 lot will be sold at $15 down and $7 a month. Pianolas in the $175 lot will be sold at $20 down and $8 a month.

Miscellaneous Piano-players, $60 to $100. We also offer a collection comprising almost every known style of Piano-player, received in exchange for the Pianola. Most of them cost their owners $250, but will be sold from $60 to $100 on very easy monthly payments.

The Aeolian Co. 362 Fifth Avenue, Near 34th Street, New York.

And eighty other equally remarkable values. Uprights and Grands, omitted for lack of space.

All These Pianos Purchasable on Moderate Monthly Payments.
